

Capturing Value
at Your Doorstep.
Moving us Towards a Circular Economy.

retrievr

An aerial photograph of a circular road loop in a lush green forest. The road is a light grey color and forms a complete circle around a central area of dense green trees. The surrounding forest is also dense and green, with some areas of darker purple foliage visible in the upper right quadrant. The overall scene is vibrant and natural.

THE CIRCULAR ECONOMY IS EMERGING

FOR IT TO ARRIVE,
WE HAVE TO CHANGE THE WAY
WE COLLECT GOODS

NOW, MANUFACTURERS & RETAILERS OF ELECTRONICS & CLOTHING DON'T HAVE CONVENIENT RECYCLING SOLUTIONS

AND SO, EVERY YEAR

75% of ELECTRONICS
aren't recycled

&

85% of CLOTHING is not recycled

DROP OFF VS CURBSIDE
EARLY DAYS OF RECYCLING
STATE OF DELAWARE COMPARISON

- 15% diversion of clothing, per the EPA data, is consistent with the early drop off models for traditional residential recyclables.
- As late as 2000 the State of Delaware was still operating a state-wide drop off only (no curbside collection) program for residential recyclables.
- The drop off system captured a disappointing 5% of the total residential waste stream.
- Fast forward to 2016, after the implementation of the Universal Recycling Law in 2010 requiring haulers to provide every Delaware household with a curbside cart for recycling.
- Delawareans captured 25.6% a 500% increase in 16 years.
- We believe there is a similar opportunity in today's underperforming drop off system for textiles.
